Sophomores Tyler Brendel of CALIFORNIA and Isaiah Oliver of COLORADO, who is also a defensive back for the Buffs' football team, are a close third and fourth on the current leaderboard and will provide a competitive quartet for the league crown.

MEN'S PREVIEW

Modin (7,450) and Delgado (7,341) finished second and third, respectively, to Tonnesen (7,942) last spring. Modin also owns a third (2014) and fourth (2015) place finish in the event, while Delgado placed sixth in 2015.

Modin captured the heptathlon at the MPSF indoor championships this past February.

Delgado's Conference-leading 2017 mark of 7,566 at the Mt. SAC Relays in April is the 10th-best in the NCAA this season. The trio of Modin (7,384), Brendel (7,347) and Oliver (7,331) are closely bunched behind Delgado on the 2017 Pac-12 top marks list.

WOMEN'S PREVIEW

Brooks-Johnson, who did not compete in 2016 but finished runner-up to Iuel in 2014, enters with the league's best mark of the season - a 5,616 at the Mt. SAC Relays, good for 10th-best in the NCAA.

The Pac-12's top five is rounded out by UCLA's Christina Chenault (5,438), Cougars' teammate Liz Harper (5,420), OREGON STATE's Kara Hallock (5,379) and USC's Lyndsey Lopes (5,368).

Harper is the top returner from last year's heptathlon, finishing third behind Iuel (6,011) and Arizona's Alyssa Thompson (5,580) with a point total of 5,564. She is also the reigning MPSF pentathlon champion from this past February.

2016 PAC-12 CHAMPIONSHIPS REVIEW

SEATTLE - For the 10th year in a row, the OREGON men captured the Pac-12 Track & Field Championships crown after scoring 155.60 points at Husky Track, while the Oregon women claimed their eighth straight title. It was also the eighth consecutive year the UO program swept the men's and women's titles. The Pac-12 Men's and Women's Athletes of the Meet also went to a pair of Ducks in Hannah Cunliffe and Devon Allen for scoring the most individual points.

Cunliffe scored 22.5 points over the weekend, which came in the form of 10 points each in the 100 meter and 200 meter, winning both races, setting a record in the 200 meters. She also collected another 2.5 points when she helped the Ducks win the 4x100 relay in record-breaking fashion. Allen's 27.5 points were on the strength of a win in the 110-meter hurdles and 200 meters races, a third-place finish in the 100-meter, and also helping the Ducks place third in the 4x100 meter race.

On the men's side, the Ducks' 155.6 points kept them ahead of second-place WASHINGTON's 122 points. UCLA was third in the standings scoring 94.2 points, followed by ARIZONA STATE's fourth-place finish with 83 points. USC scored 75 points for fifth place, one point ahead of sixth-place STANFORD. COLORADO's 63 points were seventh in the standings, ARIZONA was eighth with 57 points, CALIFORNIA collected 50.6 points for ninth place and WASHINGTON STATE had 41.6 points for 10th.

On the women's side, the Ducks scored 185 points for the second-straight year to claim the Conference title. USC had 111.5 points for second place, STANFORD was third with 90 points. WASHINGTON's 82 points were good for fourth place, UCLA was fifth with 66.5 points, just a half point ahead of COLORADO, who placed sixth. ARIZONA tallied 62 points for seventh place, WASHINGTON STATE turned in 45 points for eighth place, ARIZONA STATE picked up 41 points for ninth place, and CALIFORNIA had 39.5 points. In 11th place with 23.5 points was OREGON STATE and UTAH scored three points.

The championships featured five meet records over the weekend and a first-ever 1-2-3 women's finish in the 100 meter and 200 meter races, as well as several other firsts.

The Pac-12 Conference put on a show for the whole world by securing medals in 16 out of 16 days of full competition at the 2016 Olympic Games in Rio de Janeiro. In all, Pac-12 affiliated athletes won 55 total medals in 12 different sports for five different countries.

A total of 246 athletes took part in the games, plus an additional 31 coaches and delegates representing 47 countries in 23 sports. If the Pac-12 Conference (55 total medals) was a country, it would have been No. 5 on the overall medal count, behind Team USA (121), China (70), Great Britain (67) and Russia (56). The Conference of Champions (25 gold medals) would have ranked fourth on the gold medal table, behind USA (46), Great Britain (27) and China (26).

54 of those affiliated athletes competed in Track & Field in Rio, with 14 athletes accounting for 15 medals - six gold, three silver and six bronze. Several Rio Olympians are still competing in the Pac-12 this season.
